May 2019 Nonfiction Highlights...

Range: Why Generalists Triumph in a Specialized World
by David Epstein
"Epstein examined the world's most successful athletes, artists, musicians, inventors, forecasters... scientists. He discovered that in most fields... generalists, not specialists, are primed to excel."

The Universe Speaks in Numbers
by Graham Farmelo
"With unprecedented access to some of the world's greatest scientific minds, Farmelo offers a vivid, behind-the-scenes account of the blossoming relationship between mathematics and physics and the research that could revolutionize our understanding of reality."

The Scandal of the Century
by Gabriel García Márquez
"Here are the first pieces he wrote while working for newspapers in the coastal Colombian cities of Cartagena and Barranquilla... his longer, more fictionlike reportage from Paris and Rome... his monthly columns for Spain's El País."

Einstein's War
by Matthew Stanley
"A riveting exploration of both the beauty of scientific creativity and enduring horrors of human nature. These two great forces battle in a story that culminates with a victory now a century old, the mind bending theory of general relativity."

Why They Marched
by Susan Ware
"A tribute to the many women who worked tirelessly in communities across the nation, out of the spotlight, protesting, petitioning, and insisting on their right to full citizenship."

The Art of Inventing Hope
by Elie Wiesel with Howard Reich
"An unprecedented, in-depth conversation between the world's most revered Holocaust survivor, Elie Wiesel, and a son of survivors, Howard Reich."

Nonfiction Spotlight: Alison Lurie

This past Pulitzer Prize winner for fiction (1985) has written some notable nonfiction exploring stories behind words, names, folklore, buildings, and clothes. Such titles include: The Heavenly Zoo: Legends and Tales of the Stars, The Language of Clothes, The Language of Houses: How Buildings Speak to Us. According to the publisher, her latest nonfiction title, Words and Worlds: From Autobiography to Zippers, "gathers together her reflections on the writing life; fond recollections of inspiring friends; and perceptive, playful commentary on preoccupations ranging from children's literature to fashion and feminism."
