

Researchers: Please Read This!

Don't just settle for your favorite search engine the next time you need to look something up online: save yourself time and frustration by using our free web services first!

* If you have or qualify for a free library card at Thrall, here's just a sampling of what you can access through www.Thrall.org:

- Convenient guides to the best sites on the web
- Online reference service – ask our librarians questions over the Internet!
- Full text article databases
- Popular magazines and professional “peer-reviewed” journals
- Major newspapers, including the New York Times
- Complete sets of major multimedia encyclopedias (Britannica, World Book)
- Easy access to government information
- Powerful multi-search engine
- E-books
- Music
- Biographies
- Health Reference Center
- Consumer and legal information
- Literary Works and Criticism
- Business and financial information
- College guides
- American History
- Local History, including documents and photographs
- Local and global headlines and special coverage
- Sports scores
- Weather reports
- Reading advisories
- Book reviews
- Access to tens of thousands of titles within the library system and bibliographic access to millions in print
- So much more!

(* A library card is only required to access certain databases and to request items from the catalog.)

Did you know...

- Anyone can post information on the web, so carefully consider online sources you might use.
- Much of the information available freely through Thrall.org is NOT FREELY AVAILABLE elsewhere!
- Search engines only cover a portion of the Internet and may not recommend definitive sites.
- Thrall combines the positive power of the Internet with traditional services and new technologies to provide you the best opportunities to advance scholastically, professionally, or personally.

Let us help you!

Need books? Videos/DVDs? Research advice? A computer to type or print your research paper? Any other information? Our librarians are ready to help you! Visit the Reference Department at Thrall or call us at 341-5461 or 341-5462. You can also ask us questions over the Internet by going to www.thrall.org/ask